

SOME TYPES OF THE BAYONNE GIRLS WHO WENT OUT ON A STRIKE TO GET WORK, AND A PORTRAIT OF THEIR CONFIDENT LEADER.

FREE FROM CARE and TOIL.

GIRLS STRIKE TO GET MORE WORK

Employees of a Bayonne Silk Mill Not Kept Busy Enough, They Say, to Earn a Fair Livelihood.

One hundred and fifty girls walked out of the big silk mill belonging to Schwarzenbach, Huber & Co., located at Eighteenth street and Avenue B, Bayonne, and have resolutely refused to return to work till their demands, formulated by a committee of strikers which called on Supt. George Albach, have been complied with.

Encounters between the strikers and girls who remained at work have been frequent, and the Bayonne police were called on to protect the factory. A remarkable feature of the strike is that the girls demand not more wages, but more work.

Until they went out they received a certain stated sum weekly, and in addition were paid for piece work at the rate of 11 3/4 cents for 600 yards of silk. The stated weekly wage is $2.50, and besides asking that this be increased to $3 the girls want the assurance of sufficient piece work to bring their average weekly wages to $5.

The superintendent has not yet given a final answer to their demands, but claims that only a small portion of the force is involved in the strike, while the girls say there are not more than fifty women working in the factory, and that the greater number of these were taken from West Hoboken by the company to fill their places.

Refuse to Go Back.
The girls who refuse to go back to work are weavers, warpers, winders and reeler, who made, while at work, anywhere from $3 to $5 a week. They are divided into two committees, one for the weavers, the other for the warpers. Miss Emma Savard, Katie Brennan, Mamie Fitzpatrick, Tessie Rigney, Flossie Finan, Mary Geiger and Mary Sweeney represent the warpers, and Misses Katie Coglian, Ethel Brown, Maggie DeLeon and Mamie Hagan the weavers.

The young women met last night in Dillon's Hall, Avenue D and Nineteenth street, Bayonne, and voted unanimously not to return to work till their demands had been complied with. The speakers were particularly loud in their denunciations of Lizzie Kick, a weaver, who they claim, led the others to strike, and after remaining out a few hours, went back to work at the regular wage. After the meeting a crowd of girls gathered around the hall, and while they were talking, the offending Lizzie passed them and entered a near-by ice-cream parlor.

As soon as she appeared the striking girls set up a chorus of hoots and cries of "Scab!" and followed her into the store. Miss Kick was soundly beaten by the strikers, but finally broke away from them and leaped out of a rear window of the store. Several of the strikers followed but, by jumping over fences and skirting through alleyways, the victim finally succeeded in boarding a car to her home.

Called Out the Bluecoats.
The girls have been loitering around the factory doors at 6 o'clock, and after several personal encounters between strikers and those who had taken their places, the mill owners called on the Bayonne police for protection. Acting Inspector Van Horn and a large squad were detailed to protect the mill employees, and since the bluecoats have made their appearance the strikers have made no attempt to molest those who remained at work. The leaders of the striking warpers are Katie Brennan and Emma Savard. The latter was not to be found in Bayonne, as Lizzie Kick had obtained a warrant for her arrest, charging her with being one of the party who attacked her in the ice-cream saloon.

The excitement in Bayonne is so great to-day that when Miss Kick and another warper, Maggie Taylor, left the factory presumably on their way to obtain a warrant, they were followed by a crowd of strikers.

Miss Brennan, when seen at her home by an Evening World reporter, said: "I don't want to speak for all the girls, but I am not going back to work till the superintendent gives a final answer to our demands. I am the oldest of four sisters who all work in the mill, and try as hard as we can we don't make more than $16 a week all together. We work from 7 in the morning till 6 at night and we think we ought to have more money. As we do not belong to a regular union we may not succeed this time, but at our regular meeting Tuesday night two regular union men will be present and I expect we will be organized into a regular body and join the union."

Knows What to Expect.
"I heard to-day that the company had brought girls over from West Hoboken to take our places. If that is true those girls will have a hard time of it, I can tell you. The superintendent knows what to expect for to-day when the strikers gathered outside at the noon hour waiting for the new girls to be taken over. Ever since the strike started the foreladies have accompanied the girls who remained at work to the cars, and yesterday and to-day the police have been on duty."

"I won't go back to work at the old wage and none of the other girls will. Albach says the strike is over, but we do not believe it. At the factory Supt. Albach said that the strikers wanted a certain sum of money guaranteed to them weekly and that the company is only ready to pay for piece work. He says it is the fault of the girls if they do not make money, as many of them fritter away their time. He declared that the strike was practically over and that he did not intend to give out any information concerning it."

Realism in the Pulpit.
There is danger of making pulpits realism too melodramatic, says the Atlanta Constitution. A conservative old Scotch dominie, desiring to revive a healthy feeling of piety and piety in his frivolous congregation, preached a hot brimstone sermon and had his sexton hurl diabolical and diabolical, a telling fustian in the discourse. In the same which ensued many were injured and the church is now divided against itself.

Art Commission Gives Secretary Maltbie $150 to Study and Report on 13 European Cities

How to visit thirteen European cities, study municipal art, as well as purchase maps, plans and illustrated material, all for $150, is the question of the hour now with Assistant Secretary Maltbie, of the Art Commission. The aesthetic gentlemen composing that body, who have in their charge the embellishment of the city, purpose sending the assistant secretary abroad to study civic art in the thirteen largest cities in Europe, and have set aside a generous appropriation of $150 for the secretary's expenses. He is figuring it out. Here are a few of the things that the Commission expect the secretary to do for that $150: To inquire and report upon noteworthy modern instances of city embellishment, including boulevards, bridges, plazas, interior as well as exterior decoration of public and quasi-public buildings and matters connected therewith, visiting the cities of Copenhagen, Stockholm, St. Petersburg, Moscow, Vienna, Budapest, Munich, Dresden, Berlin, Hamburg, Antwerp, Brussels and Paris, and to purchase maps, plans and illustrated material, subject to instructions by the commission and committee, and that the time occupied in such duties be understood to include the vacation usually allowed him.

"How do you propose spending all the money?" the secretary was asked to-day.

"There won't be any to spend after the trip," the secretary was asked to-day.

"Practical Experience."

(From the Chicago News.)

"Sure, I'd advise you to get married," said the man with the frayed trousers.

"A fellow never knows how cheaply he can live till he acquires a hustling wife," said the secretary before I was married. I couldn't support myself decently, but now—"

"You're a young man who was in search of information," said the easy-going citizen.

"Oh, my wife supports me now," replied the easy-going citizen.

"I'll tell you, my boy, matrimonial bliss beats single blessedness a block and a half."

MY, BUT THIS IS GENEROUS!

SOME OF THE CHILD STINKERS.

Justice Blanchard in the Supreme Court to-day denied the application of Deacon Montague Waldron, of No. 220 West Sixty-first street, for a writ of certiorari mandamus compelling "the Baptist Temple" to reinstate him as a member and a deacon in the church.

In his petition for the writ Deacon Waldron said he had been a member of the church and one of the Board of Deacons for several years, but was expelled from the Board and the church without a trial. He quoted from the by-laws of the church: "Any one tried by a church should be allowed every opportunity, both as to time, place and circumstances, to vindicate himself. The very Justices of Christ's house should I make to mercy. It should be made manifest that the object is not to punish but to reclaim."

Edward S. Clinch, attorney for the Baptist Temple, replied that "Waldron was a member of the spiritual body known as the Church—the Church of the New Testament, and not of the corporation under the laws of the State for the purpose of managing the temporal affairs of the corporation."

Clinch contended that, while the courts have jurisdiction over the corporation, they have none over the spiritual body, which is a voluntary private organization and denied the writ.

Justice Blanchard sustained this view and denied the writ.

Protest from Novelists' Victims.
(From the Atlanta Pioneer.)

The Anglo-Indian is usually depicted by the modern novelist as a being whose unfortunate addiction to curls and short pees has induced a temperament far from sunny, and, though some kind-hearted souls have endeavored to correct this sweeping condemnation, so widely is this literary verdict accepted as just that the "peppery" (colonel) has come to be regarded as the true and only type of latter-day India.

Knockout for Church Deacon.

Mr. Waldron's demand for a Writ of Reinstatement in the Baptist Temple Is Denied by Justice Blanchard.

"A Wonder-Working Remedy for Women," Says Mrs. Brown.

Paine's Celery Compound
Tones and Strengthens Every Weak Organ and Invigorates the Whole System.

Paine's Celery Compound has been specially prepared for the relief and cure of the many ailments that afflict women, and it never fails to give a new and healthy tone to the female organs; it restores relaxed debility and unhealthy secretions; it purifies the blood and establishes a perfect and vigorous health. Mrs. W. Brown, Vineland, Cal., writes as follows:—"Four years ago female troubles and irregularities commenced to make my life miserable. Though I sought the best medical advice, my sufferings seemed to increase, and recently, upon the advice of a friend, I used Paine's Celery Compound, and found it to be a wonder-working compound. I have used five bottles and can truthfully say I am a new woman. I owe my life and present good health to Paine's Celery Compound."
